BUCHANAN ON THE STAND.

We have heretofore shown by the testimony of Secretary Marey, the Senate Committee, the Democratic Senate, and the leading lights of the Democratic party, that Col. Fremont had rendered a just account to the Government for all his pecuniary transactions with it, and that he did not owe the Government a dollar.

We have also shown that he was deserving of great praise for the part he bore in the conquest of California. We are now able to produce as a witness to the same points no less distinguished a witness than his competitor for the Presidency, James Buchanan himself.

It is his testimony taken by Henry L. Gilpin, Hugh Campbell and Peter McCall, of Philadelphia, Commissioners appointed by the Court, in 1852, to take depositions of witnesses for Col. Fremont in Pennsylvania, to be sent to Sir James Parker, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas.

Col. Fremont was arrested in London, on account of debts contracted in California. The defense was, that those debts were contracted on account of the United States Government. Col. Fremont drew bills of exchange to the amount of thirteen thousand five hundred dollars upon the Secretary of State of the United States, the liabilities having been incurred on Government account while Col. Fremont was Governor of California. The bills fell into the hands of persons in London, and, being protested for non-acceptance, the holders sought to hold Col. Fremont personally responsible.

The following is the material portion of the testimony of James Buchanan, upon whom, as Secretary of State, these bills were drawn:—

The testimony, entire, as produced from the Court Records in London, and received by the last steamer, is published in the New York papers. Did Col. Fremont have any share in the conquest of California? The Standard Hunter presses generally say no. Hear what James Buchanan says:—

"Col. Fremont, the defendant, was in California at the time of the conquest of California by the United States and the Republic of Mexico; he there raised and commanded a band of volunteers, consisting of about four hundred men; his services were very valuable; he bore a conspicuous part in the conquest of California, and, in my opinion, is entitled to the credit of the conquest of California."

Were the supplies which Col. Fremont supplied to the army, necessary? The Hunter press says no. James Buchanan testifies:—

"I do think that such supplies were necessary for the success of the conquest of California, and that an appropriation of money by Congress to pay for the supplies, Congress could not have anticipated that Col. Fremont would raise a California battalion by his own personal exertions and while at previous instructions."

Did Col. Fremont receive any consideration for the bills drawn on the Government for those supplies? In other words, was there any pecuniary transaction? The News, Agents and State Hunter press say yes. James Buchanan testifies:—

"I neither know nor believe that the defendant himself individually and for his own private use of benefit, ever received any consideration for such bills or any of them, and do not believe there was any consideration whatever for the drawing of the same bills or any of them, other than to procure supplies for the forces under his command in California."

I should have accepted and paid these bills, from my own knowledge of the transactions in California, and Congress appropriated money and placed it at my disposal, which would have been more correct to have drawn these bills on the Secretary of War."

A Democratic Congress has since examined and retold all his accounts. How does Mr. Buchanan know where he affirmed? Hear him answer:—

"I have answered the interrogatories respecting Col. Fremont from my own personal knowledge and observation. From my own knowledge of the conquest of California, and from information derived from official documents, as a member of the Cabinet of President Polk, who was President of the U. S. during the whole of the Mexican War."

We submit that Magnity and Falseness are expelled from the work of traducing Col. Fremont for his official conduct, by the testimony of the Democratic Presidential candidate, James Buchanan.

For County Surveyor—Peter O'Laughlin, of Taycheedah.

For Coroner—James McClements, of Calumet.

The Appleton Crescent of the 20th inst. says: "The Equinoctial Storm came upon us the present week with great severity. More rain we think fell on Tuesday and Wednesday than during the last three months. The wind blew a heavy gale on Thursday night; many trees were torn out by the roots, fences blown down, &c. In Menasha, two or three buildings partially constructed were demolished."

New York papers of the 16th inst., state that the State of California remitted by George Law the funds necessary for the payment of the State interest due on the 15th of July last, and which has yet remained unpaid through the neglect of Messrs. Palmer Cook & Co.—The payment will be made in a few days by Messrs. Wells Fargo & Co.

The Beaver Dam Republican says that, in this State, the Fremonters will depict a small tribe of people to turn against the Democracy.

Not so. They have been duped by the Sham Democracy, but are now getting their eyes open.

Wm. W. Hays is said to grow abundantly in the neighborhood of Carver and Glenwood, Iowa. They have all the properties of the cultivated plant, and grow much more plentifully. A considerable trade is carried on by the settlers of that region in this article of commerce.

WHIGGLING IN VAN.—The Waukesha Plain Dealer tries to throw the blame of the defection in the State Treasury on the neglect of past legislatures to investigate its condition. It says:—

A great weight of responsibility rests upon the Legislature, or successive Legislatures, which for four years or more neglected to authorize or set on foot an investigation into the condition of the State Treasury and School Land Departments. To such neglect on the part of the Legislature the irregularities, if not the several reported deficiencies, are, in the main, attributable.

Be it remembered that the Legislature of 1855 passed a bill providing for such an investigation as has now been had. Gov. Barstow vetoed it, on the express ground that it was designed to afford political capital for the Republican party at the then approaching State Election. And the Barstow press now condemn the report of the investigating Committee, for the same reason that Gov. Barstow did in his veto.

SINGULAR FACT.—Mr. Paul Stillman, a native of Rhode Island, died in New York last week, well known as being at the head of one of the departments in the Novelty Works. His death was occasioned by an injury to his foot from wearing tight boots for the space of only two hours. Mortification ensued and amputation became necessary, which resulted in his death.

PAPER MACIE MATERIAL.—Old leather, by itself, or in combination with ordinary paper mache, is said to be admirably adapted for the manufacture of various useful and ornamental articles made from gutta serena or paper exclusively. Of course the price of such articles would by this means be greatly reduced, the value of the old leather being quite small.

POURING MILL BOMB.—The new flouring mill of Messrs. Cook & Elliot, not quite finished at Barton, Washington County, was destroyed by fire on Friday night last. Loss about $2,000 on the mill. Twelve tool chests valued at $2,000 to $2,500 were also consumed. Mill insured for $4,000. The fire is supposed to have been designedly set.
